Note:

- 1) Milestone outcomes were included in the categories High Pass and Pass with Honors if these designations were explicitly indicated in the students' milestone record.
- 2) Category "High Pass" includes both "High Pass" and "Pass with distinction".
- 3) The count in this table is based on the exam outcomes of all attempts in an academic year.
- 4) Level of the comps, i.e. Master's and doctoral, is based on the milestone activities; if there is no specification of the level in the record, students' degree level is used to determine the level.

The M.A. comprehensive examination consists of two parts taken on successive days: history of literature in English to 1800, and history of literature in English since 1800.

The Ph.D. comprehensive examination consists of three parts taken on successive days: literature of a historical period chosen by the student; literary theory and the history of criticism; and an individualized field within which the dissertation is anticipated to be written. Each part of each exam is written and evaluated by at least two faculty members, then voted on by the full faculty.

- Note: 1) The "N" represents the number of students at each level of performance for each trait.
 2) The "%" represents the percentage of the number of students falling at the level performance for each trait against the total number of students.
 3) The mean is the average of all scores across the levels within the trait.
 4) The standard deviation (SD) is the measure of the variability of the data set, indicating how "spread out" these data are from the mean value.

This was the second year of a revised format for the M.A. comprehensive exam, with additional emphasis on literary history and less on literary theory (which is a main focus on the Ph.D. comprehensive). The faculty considers the results so far to be satisfactory.
